

1984

starlim was founded as a family company in Marchtrenk and has been run by the owners ever since

employees around the world work on the production of perfect silicone products every day

billions of high-quality silicone parts are produced annually for the industry, life sciences and mobility sectors

starlim produces technical molded parts and multi-component parts from silicone
using injection molding.

INSIDE

From the idea to the finished product.

starlim is the world's largest manufacturer of liquid silicone products and, as a full-service provider, can take care of all tasks required for your development and production orders. This saves you valuable time and resources.

COMPANY

In the car, in the baby pacifier, in the kitchen drawer – these are just a few examples of places where starlim products can be seen or even installed unseen. The ubiquity of starlim's products is the result of our specialization in the injection molding production of small parts made of silicone in single and multi-component technology. Our clear focus is mass production.
