Freight Market Upturn Bodes Well For Top 100 For-Hire Carriers

Seth Clevenger
Managing Editor,
Features and Multimedia

The business outlook has brightened considerably this year for North America's leading trucking companies, which are finally beginning to secure higher rates after surviving the crucible of a nearly four-year freight market slump.

The culling of excess freight-hauling capacity — through businesses gradually exiting the industry and the recent enforcement crackdown on noncompliant carriers — has rebalanced supply and demand and paved the way for much-needed profitability gains.

Although a growing sense of optimism has taken hold in recent months, it will take time for the ongoing freight market recovery to translate to widespread improvement throughout the trucking industry.

This latest edition of Transport Topics' Top 100 For-Hire Carriers list, which ranks the industry's largest trucking companies based on 2025 revenue, reflects last year's challenging market conditions.

Some motor carriers still managed to grow their businesses, but a clear majority of the companies that qualified for the Top 100 generated less revenue in 2025 than in the prior year.

That trend appears to be reversing in 2026 as market conditions stabilize and the trucking industry enters a long-awaited upcycle.

The most prominent change to this year's ranking is the debut of No. 4 FedEx Freight as a stand-alone, publicly traded less-than-truckload carrier following the June 1 completion of its spinoff from FedEx Corp.

Despite that separation, package delivery giant FedEx Corp. easily retains its No. 2 position on the list, just behind its top-ranked rival, UPS Inc.

Another major move was No. 19 Werner Enterprises' acquisition of Murfreesboro, Tenn.-based dedicated contract carrier FirstFleet, which ranked No. 67 on the Top 100 a year ago. That transaction, announced in January, significantly expands Werner's dedicated operations and positions the company to move up this list in the future.

In another deal involving two Top 100 companies, No. 15 Hub Group completed its acquisition of No. 48 Marten Transport's intermodal business in September.

Despite the down market, some carriers achieved notable business growth last year.

No. 10 Schneider's full-year revenue grew 7% to $5.7 billion last year, largely driven by its late 2024 acquisition of Baltimore-based dedicated carrier Cowan Systems.

No. 20 Prime Inc., the industry's largest refrigerated carrier, also bucked the overall industry trend with a strong growth year, increasing its revenue 9% to more than $2.7 billion.

This year's updated Top 100 list features 10 companies that were not ranked a year ago.

Appearing at No. 33 is STG Logistics, an intermodal transportation and drayage provider based in Dublin, Ohio. In May, STG received court approval for its reorganization plan, clearing the way for the company to emerge from Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

Two prominent bulk carriers based in Oklahoma — No. 82 United Petroleum Transports of Oklahoma City and No. 88 Groendyke Transport of Enid — both joined the Top 100 this year.

Other newcomers to the list are No. 95 Spee-Dee Delivery Service, a package courier headquartered in St. Cloud, Minn.; No. 96 Blackhawk Transport, a dedicated contract carrier based in Beloit, Wis.; No. 97 Magnum Ltd., a diversified trucking company in Fargo, N.D.; No. 98 Continental Express, a temperature-controlled carrier headquartered in Sidney, Ohio; No. 99 Pride Transport, a refrigerated carrier based in Salt Lake City; and No. 100 System Freight, a dedicated carrier operating out of Jamesburg, N.J.

The Transport Topics Top 100 and industry sector lists presented in this publication rank the largest for-hire carriers in the United States and Canada based on 2025 revenue.

The information reflects from companies' responses to an annual survey conducted by Transport Topics, along with data from financial reports and other public sources.

Where noted, the lists also include revenue estimates by Transport Topics and SJ Consulting Group for companies that did not report updated information. TT
